

THE GRANT PLANT^{INC}

RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT OFFICER

Job Description

The Resource Development Officer will help The Grant Plant, Inc., its clients, and community partners within a fast-paced and team-oriented environment dedicated to securing the funding resources that nonprofit organizations need to deliver on their missions. The work encompasses diverse areas of Human Services, Education, Technology, Economic Development, Youth Development, and an array of others.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

Primary responsibilities include generating revenue for client programs and services through timely submission of well-researched, well-written, and well-documented fundraising proposals including grant applications, letters of inquiry, nominations, and other compelling documents.

The Resource Development Officer also performs professional and administrative work in researching and identifying new public and private grant opportunities that are well-aligned with client interests. The position is also responsible for analyzing and compiling data and information on the performance of client program activities that are funded by third-party public and private sources, and writing reports to government, foundations, corporations, and other funders on the progress or completion of client program activities. The Resource Development Officer acts as a liaison between The Grant Plant and clients in meetings, phone calls, and electronic communication, and may serve as a liaison between the client and funding entities. The Resource Development Officer may also engage in special projects as needed and requested by the Leadership Team and The Grant Plant's clients.

Qualified candidates will possess excellent writing, computer, interpersonal, and organizational skills. The Resource Development Officer must be highly dependable with the ability to implement systems and follow-up processes, able to work efficiently and have respect for maximizing use of client resources, have a sense of humor, use independent judgment, and produce a quality work product within tight time constraints.

Previous experience will demonstrate a proven track record in securing new funding opportunities; outstanding writing ability; knowledge of data and prospect research; and the ability to manage multiple projects and deadlines successfully. The successful candidate must be independent, motivated, and driven to succeed, and be strongly aligned with the company's organizational values: Accountability, Collaboration, Compassion, Humor, Innovation, Integrity, Results, and Risk-Taking.

QUALIFIED CANDIDATE DEMONSTRATE:

- Alignment with the eight organizational values of TGP, and ability to articulate personal behaviors with each
- Conviction that New Mexico is a state worth investing in and that the state can increase its ranking in all measures of quality of life
- Excellent writing; will not settle for mediocrity (incomplete information, typos, bad grammar, wrong formatting of style)
- Detailed and thorough approach to project management
- Understanding of grant seeking and philanthropy
- Ability to be a bold and engaging team member; someone who inspires and motivates colleagues and clients with new ideas, while at the same time being a "ghost" writer for clients and projects

- Ability to strategically collect information and input while helping design programs and budgets; ability to move projects forward with limited information
- Evidence of success discerning what is important vs. urgent and prioritizing for maximum efficiency; ability to juggle multiple deadlines with grace and good humor
- The emotional intelligence to work effectively with diverse leaders and different personalities
- Problem-solving skills, with a combination of confidence and humility
- Effective and winning communication skills, both oral and written, and understands the importance of voice and listening to others during project development
- Ability to break down complex processes into systematic and simple descriptions
- Self-awareness, with an ability to treat all members of the community with respect and hold an accurate idea of one's own strengths and weaknesses
- Ability to accept and provide constructive criticism and edits of work
- Ability to deal with rejection in a healthy way
- Curiosity; life-long learner
- Absolute integrity and commitment to working in a team-based environment
